

I SPY WITH my little eye ...

A classic game
for 2 to 6 players aged 4 and over

How to set up the game:

Shuffle all of the cards and place them face down on the table as a draw pile. Now turn ten cards over and lay them out at the center of the table where you can all see them. These are your display cards.

Getting started:

The last person to see a hot air balloon starts. You get to say a color. Take a look at the pictures on the display cards. Silently choose a color that you can see on one of the cards. Then say: "I spy with my little eye something ..." and say your chosen color. All of the other players should then take a close look at all of the display cards. They can all look for the color on the cards at the same time. Have you spotted something in the color mentioned? Then point to it on the card.

- 🕒 Spot on: Did you point to the right part of the card? Then the person who said the color says "That's right!" out loud. You may now take the card and place it in front of you, turned face down. Take a new card from the draw pile and lay it face up with the other display cards. Now it's your turn to say a color.

- 🕒 Completely wrong: Did you point to the wrong thing? Then the person who said a color says “No, that’s wrong!” out loud. That’s too bad. Don’t give up though – you can all keep guessing!

Has no one guessed the right solution? Then the person who said the color can give another clue and say: “I spy with my little eye something ...”, then add an appropriate description such as “big” or “fluffy.” If that still doesn’t help, then the person who said the color should point out what they spied. The next person in a clockwise direction then gets to say a color.

End of the game:

The game ends as soon as a player has three cards in front of them. Have you won? Then congratulations!

How about a new challenge? Lay 15 cards out at the start of the game, then play as described above. The more cards you lay out, the harder the game is!
